As value-based care payment models become the norm, organizations need the right tools to control costs, manage margins and improve their financial health.

Procurement teams are the unsung heroes of healthcare organizations, managing costs, clinician needs, and a vast array of suppliers. However, outdated processes make real-time cost containment extremely challenging and time-intensive.

How Upstate Services Group Went from Zero Visibility to Real-Time Control

A Spend Management Success Story

This is the remarkable story of how Upstate Services Group, a long-term healthcare provider with 13 facilities across New York State, transformed its procurement processes with Unimarket's Spend Management solutions bringing in a new era of unprecedented visibility, control, and budget discipline.

Building the Foundation

When Melvin Szwerein, the Head of Purchasing at USG, joined the company, he immediately recognized opportunities to improve the procurement of essential patient supplies and services. "There was no procurement department," Melvin recalls. "Procurement was ad-hoc, which led to inefficiencies and a lack of visibility across our organization's many facilities." Without the tools to manage and oversee procurement, it was challenging to control purchasing and spending, especially in an environment of capitated, value-based care payment models and razor-thin profit margins. Recognizing that the state of USG's financial health directly impacts the ability to deliver high-quality patient care, Melvin began building the infrastructure to support USG's procurement processes, starting with the selection of Unimarket as their spend management platform. Today, Szwerein's team of five manages procurement for all 13 facilities, leveraging Unimarket's source-to-pay software to ensure compliance and the budget discipline needed to maintain USG's financial health. This evolution has allowed their medical staff to focus 100% on patient care, not procurement.

Financial Benefits and ROI

"The establishment of a dedicated purchasing department – and our selection of Unimarket's Spend Management platform – has been pivotal," Melvin stated, emphasizing the significant cost savings achieved by ensuring buyers purchase from strategic suppliers at negotiated rates across all of the organization's facilities. The adoption of Unimarket's platform has resulted in substantial financial gains, reducing procurement costs and maximizing return on investment.

The Quest for the Right Solution

Upstate Services Group's existing procurement system was failing to meet their needs, causing disruptions that impacted the delivery of patient care. "We tried different software providers," Melvin explained. "We initially selected a competitor of Unimarket's and used it for two years, but we recognized that it just didn't meet our needs."

Enter Unimarket. Known for its intuitive and easy-to-use functionality, Unimarket offered USG a comprehensive suite of software tools for managing every aspect of their source-to-pay processes. Melvin was meticulous in his evaluation, finding other platforms inconsistent and unreliable. "I heard that Unimarket was stable and dependable," he said. "It's been over eight years and I've never, ever had any downtime at all." This dependability was non-negotiable for USG, where any system downtime could disrupt critical operations.

Seamless Implementation & Support

Implementing Unimarket was a seamless experience, thanks to the unwavering support from their implementation and customer support teams. "We definitely had good support working with the team setting it up," Melvin notes. "It's a system that streamlines for you. I never felt that it was cumbersome."

“We can now track our spending in real-time and identify any issues before they become problems.”

100% Compliance

Compliance is critical in healthcare, where regulatory requirements and standards are stringent. Unimarket's Spend Management platform ensures your organization adheres to these regulations seamlessly. By automating approval workflows and standardizing purchasing processes, Unimarket's platform ensures alignment with your organization's internal policies, budgets, and external regulations.

Additionally, Unimarket allows customization to meet specific public or private-entity commitments, such as purchasing from minority- and women-owned business enterprises (M/WBE) and environmentally friendly businesses. This flexibility ensures compliance with all your organization's requirements, minimizes risks and maintains operational efficiency and integrity.

Transitioning from zero visibility to real-time data and analytics is crucial to instilling budget discipline and increasing profitability and margins. Let's face it. Healthcare organizations are already stretched thin, caring for patients and managing the operations of multiple facilities. You don't have time for lengthy software implementations. Additionally, the software quickly generates a return on investment through cost savings and budget discipline. The benefits quickly outweigh the initial investment by ensuring 100% of purchasing is directed to on-contract suppliers, making it a no-brainer for healthcare organizations seeking financial control, and balancing the fine line between profit and loss.
